LAS VEGAS, May 13, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- During last night's broadcast of NBC's "All-Star Celebrity Apprentice," Rio All-Suite Hotel & Casino headliner Penn Jillette was named one of two finalists left in the competition. For the final challenge Penn was tasked with creating his very own flavor of Walgreens Good & Delish™ super premium ice cream. His creation, "Vanilla & Chocolate Magic Swirtle," was launched this morning at an ice cream social at the Walgreens in the middle of the Las Vegas Strip. A combination of premium vanilla and chocolate ice cream mixed with salted caramel swirls and pieces of delicious chocolate, Penn's special flavor will be sold at Walgreens and Duane Reade locations across the country beginning Monday, May 13. Walgreens will award $100,000 to Opportunity Village, the Las Vegas-based charity for which Penn has been playing, if he sells more ice cream than his competitor. The ice cream sales will also help determine who is ultimately named the All-Star Celebrity Apprentice, which would award an additional $250,000 to Opportunity Village.

"When Donald Trump asked me to return for the 'All-Star' season of 'Celebrity Apprentice,' I was both honored and excited to get another chance to raise money for Opportunity Village," said Penn. "To date, I have raised nearly $400,000 for this amazing, Las Vegas-based charity, and hope that from today's event and this week's ice cream sales, we'll be able to raise even more money for them."
