Caesars Entertainment Recognized by Computerworld as "Top 100 Best Places to Work in IT"

Career Advancement, Team Member Recognition and Flexible Work Schedules Top List of Reasons Why Caesars Entertainment Ranks 26th on the List for Midsize Organizations

LAS VEGAS, June 17, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- IDG's Computerworld today announced Caesars Entertainment Corporation (NASDAQ: CZR), one of the world's most diversified casino-entertainment providers, is one of the "Top 100 Best Places to Work in IT." Companies are selected based on their ability to challenge their information technology (IT) team members while providing great benefits and compensation. Ranking 26th on the list for midsize organizations, Caesars Entertainment was selected for its job training, career advancement opportunities, team member recognition, leadership accessibility and flexible work schedules.

"Caesars Entertainment's IT department is leading the company through a digital transformation that would not be possible without our innovative team members who are passionate about being the dominant digital leader in the hospitality, gaming and entertainment industry," said Les Ottolenghi, Executive Vice President and Chief Information Officer. "As our most valuable asset, it is important that Caesars invest in our valuable team members and celebrate their success. Recognition from Computerworld validates everything we, the Caesars IT department, work for and the award speaks volumes about the remarkable culture at our company."

The tenure of Caesars Entertainment's IT team members speaks to the success of the company's culture. With an average 9.5 years, team members have the opportunity to grow their careers through multiple roles and mentorships. This is a direct result of continuous development, training and Caesars Entertainment's ability to recognize and celebrate its employees as its most important asset.

The company's IT professionals have been instrumental in developing the technology that underpins the innovative guest experiences the company offers. These efforts have exposed Caesars IT team members to new technologies and a pathway to gaining incomparable expertise in emerging fields.

"The market for IT talent remains very tight, and employers continue to focus on finding and holding on to the best people," said Computerworld executive editor Ken Mingis. "Our 2019 survey shows again that the Best Places to Work in IT are dynamic organizations that provide top pay and a broad array of programs and benefits designed to make them attractive places to work. Many show that they have a commitment to training, to diversity and to improved communication and teamwork."

Organizations recognized on the list are also included in coverage on Computerworld.com, along with the full list of honorees for the 2019 "Best Places to Work in IT" survey.
