LAS VEGAS (Nov. 6, 2020) — Since reopening in June, Caesars Palace Las Vegas reached the impressive milestone of distributing one million masks to guests at the iconic resort today, Nov. 6. In true Caesars fashion, Caesar and Cleopatra of the resort's Royal Court surprised the special guests, Loreto and Mercedes Lagrisola of San Diego, who received the golden one millionth masks with a proclamation for an upgraded experience #LikeACaesar. Caesars Palace team members also celebrated the moment with congratulatory signs and confetti poppers.

"The health and safety of our Team Members and guests is a top priority for us, and we want to celebrate those guests who join us in adhering to our enhanced protocols," said Sean McBurney, Senior Vice President and Caesars Palace General Manager. "While these matters are serious, it doesn't mean we can't have fun celebrating with Caesar, Cleo and a gold mask."

As a token of appreciation during this momentous occasion, the special guest received a one-of-a-kind, commemorative gold mask, along with a luxurious spa treatment at Qua Baths & Spa and a special dinner for two at one of the world-renowned restaurants at Caesars Palace.

Caesars Palace has implemented Caesars Entertainment, Inc.'s ("Caesars" or "the Company") new health and safety protocols, which enhance its existing plans and practices in these areas.
